

How to Measure Your Calf Length for Boots

It is important that you are wearing comfortable clothing which allows you to bend; your jodis or breeches are ideal. If you are going to wear thick socks with your boots then put a pair on.

Stand in front of a dining or office chair and lift your leg, placing your foot on the seat of the chair.

Tuck the tape right into the back of your knee and hold it there, extending the other end all the way to your heel (where it meets the chair seat).

IMPORTANT: Leather boots 'drop' over the first few wears, by about an inch; if you add on an inch to ensure they are not too short after dropping, it is essential that you allow them to drop BEFORE wearing for riding as your bent leg will put pressure onto the end of the zip and may force it to sprain or break.
